THE HONORABLE CHIEF JUSTICE AND JUSTICES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF NEW MEXICO

DISTINGUISHED MEMBERS OF THE
NEW MEXICO STATE LEGISLATURE

The 1981-82 fiscal year Annual Report of the Judicial Department, published pursuant to Section 34-9-3, N.M.S.A. 1978, is submitted herewith for your review.

Emphasis has been placed on continuing to provide the quality and kinds of services as in past years although faced with budget cuts. More efficient methods of operation are being devised to deal with the demands of increasing caseloads and decreasing funds.

We share a common goal with New Mexico citizenry and state government alike: equal justice for all, affordable justice, to which anyone needing it has access. The combined efforts and positive interrelationships among the Executive, Legislative and Judicial branches contribute materially to achieving that goal.

Respectfully submitted,

Edward J Baca

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF THE COURTS

The Administrative Office of the Courts was created by the New Mexico State Legislature in 1959. The office of the court administrator was placed under the supervision of the Supreme Court initially to inventory out-of-district designations in the district courts and survey the civil dockets of the state to determine the relative number of types of civil cases handled by district courts. Responsibilities of the Administrative Office of the Courts have expanded considerably in the last twenty-three years to keep pace with the state's rapid population growth and resultant rising caseloads at all levels of courts as well as meeting demands of an increasingly complex judicial system and dwindling funds.

Section 34-9-3, NMSA 1978, sets forth the statutory requirements of the Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts who shall, under the Supreme Court's direction and supervision:

> supervise all matters relating to administration of the courts;
> examine fiscal matters and the state of the dockets of the courts...
> submit to the Supreme Court and to the Legislature by January 30 of each year a report of the activities of the administrative office and of the state of business of the courts, including the statistical data submitted to the Supreme Court...
> deal with the problems of finance of those courts supported by legislative appropriation and be concerned with adequate but economical financing of each of these courts and the equitable distribution of funds among them. For this purpose the Director shall receive, adjust and approve proposed budgets submitted by these courts...
> perform other duties in aid of the administration of justice and the administration and dispatch of the business of the courts as directed by the Supreme Court. The courts shall comply with all requests of the director for information.

The Administrative Office of the Courts is budgeted funds by the Legislature each year to maintain the total operation of the magistrate courts, district court jury and witness vouchering system, judge pro tempore program, and management staff. Other responsibilities include judicial personnel administration, court management analysis services, program design and monitoring, systems development, judicial education and training, budget and accounting management, and operations supervision of the Supreme Court Building Commission.

The staff of thirty-three full-time employees is organized into three divisions: Staff Operations, Personnel, and Budget and Accounting. Staff Operations performs studies of judicial organizational structures, systems and methods for the purpose of recommending changes to improve functioning of the appellate, district and magistrate courts. Magistrate services is a component of Staff Operations. The Personnel Division conducts studies of classifications, pay ranges, salaries, updates the Judicial Personnel Plan, and handles paperwork on all Judicial Department employees. The training component of Personnel is responsible for continued education of appellate, district, metropolitan, and magistrate judges, clerks, juvenile probation officers, court reporters, and court monitors. Program design and monitoring and internal audit of the state funded courts fall within the Director's purview.

The Budget and Accounting Division handles budget and accounting for the Supreme Court Building Commission in addition to the Administrative Office of the Courts and magistrate courts. Also included under Budget and Accounting are data collection and purchasing and property control.

Dan Sosa, Jr., Senior Justice
H. Vern Payne, Justice
William R. Federici, Justice
William F. Riordan, Justice

In 1976 Mack Easley was successful in his election bid for an unexpired term of six years and Dan Sosa, Jr. was successful in his race for an eight-year term. Both terms began on January 1, 1977. In 1978 William R. Federici was elected to an eight-year term, beginning on January 1, 1979. During the 69th fiscal year, H. Vern Payne was successful in his campaign for an eight-year term, beginning on January 1, 1981. William F. Riordan defeated Edwin L. Felter in the 1980 general election, and was elected to the unexpired term of Mr. Justice John B. McManus. This term will expire on December 31, 1987.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court is selected by the Court to serve for two years. Mr. Senior Justice Sosa was chosen by the Court to serve as Chief Justice for the 1979 and 1980 calendar years. Mr. Chief Justice Easley was selected by the Court to serve for the 1981 and 1982 calendar years. The Chief Justice presides at all sessions of court and is the Administrative Officer of the Court during his tenure as Chief Justice.

On a monthly basis, the new cases on the regular docket of the Supreme Court were filed as follows. (Figures for the 69th, 68th, 67th and 66th fiscal years are added for comparison.)

There were 37 cases entered on the habeas corpus docket. There were petitions filed and hearings held on 419 Rule 37 Motions, 35 Rule 46 Motions and 16 Rule 60 Motions. These motions are entered on a separate docket and deal with the right to a speedy trial, a right to hearing, etc. One Justice hears all of the above petitions each month and this assignment is rotated between the Justices.

Original proceedings, motions, and petitions for prerogative writs are heard by a panel of three Justices each Wednesday, unless otherwise directed by the Court. The panels for the hearings are assigned by the Chief Justice each month on a rotating basis. The Court disposes of these matters either by order or by written opinion.

Petitions for writ of certiorari to the Court of Appeals are considered by the entire Court, and are either granted and assigned for disposition by opinion or denied by order.

The remainder of the cases filed in the Supreme Court are placed on the General Calendar to be submitted to the Court when at issue. Cases are submitted to the Court either by oral argument or on the briefs submitted by counsel.

The Supreme Court handed down 266 opinions and/or decisions during the twelve month period, disposing of 280 cases. There were opinions handed down on 44 cases where writs of certiorari had been issued, reviewing decisions of the Court of Appeals.

The Compilation Commission has continued to service the New Mexico Statutes Annotated's public subscribers. Approximately 990 full set holders are now participating in this service. There are, in addition, approximately 980 partial set holders. There was one distribution of statute materials made to the set holders during the 70th fiscal year. One billing for these materials was authorized. The 1982 supplements and the billing for those supplements were distributed in September, 1982.

The Compilation Commission has continued with its program of organization and publication of the New Mexico Attorney General Opinions. There are approximately 200 subscriptions to this service. The individual Attorney General Opinions, as well as a 30-year index, compliance guides and informational pamphlets are being offered in a quarterly subscription service.

As a service to the public, the Compilation Commission and this office are maintaining an inventory of statute pamphlets, judicial rules pamphlets and Attorney General Opinion materials for sale. Currently these supplies are running at approximately 150 of each pamphlet and supplement, with a supply of 300 of the Attorney General publications also in stock.

This office completed distribution of Volumes 95 and 96 of the New Mexico Reports during the 70th fiscal year. Sales of New Mexico Reports are made to the general public and to interested state agencies. A complete inventory of Volumes 4 through 96 is available for sale.

The District Court is the trial court of general jurisdiction. It has appellate jurisdiction over all cases in inferior courts. It has exclusive jurisdiction in all matters involving juveniles, domestic relations, and all cases not excepted in the Constitution or by law, such as where concurrent with Probate Courts in probate matters. The state is divided into thirteen judicial districts, eleven of which are multi-county, in the state's thirty-three counties.

There is a presiding judge in those districts having more than one judge. All District Court judges must be licensed to practice law in the state, be at least thirty years of age, and a resident and a member of the bar for three years. District Judges are elected to serve six-year terms.

JUVENILE PROBATION SERVICES

In addition to the number of cases adjudicated each year, a far greater number are handled administratively by the juvenile probation offices. These cases, referred to as "informal cases", are composed of those children who the jpos feel can be helped in a manner other than adjudication. A primary goal of New Mexico's juvenile probation officers is to divert away from formal procedures and to provide children with family, group, and individual counseling in hopes that these processes will discourage further involvement in the criminal justice system.

MAGISTRATE COURTS

New Mexico magistrates preside over courts of limited jurisdiction. Since they derive their powers by legislative enactment, the Legislature can increase or reduce magistrate court jurisdiction, as well as create or abolish individual courts.

By current law, a magistrate's territorial jurisdiction is coextensive with the district, i.e. county in which a magistrate serves. However, a magistrate may exercise jurisdiction over certain vehicle and game department violations occurring in adjacent districts. A magistrate may also sit in any action arising in another district when designated by a district judge.

A magistrate's criminal jurisdiction extends to all misdemeanors. He may levy fines of not more than $1,000.00 and may impose jail sentences of a definite term of less than one year. A magistrate may conduct preliminary hearings in felony cases, where authorized by law. Civil jurisdiction extends to debts or sums claimed up to $2,000.00 exclusive of interest and court costs.

The New Mexico magistrate system entered its thirteenth year of operation January 1, 1982. Seventy-eight magistrates, including eleven metropolitan judges, are presently serving the state. They are assigned primarily based on caseloads. Only the Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court judges of the state magistrates are required to be members of the New Mexico Bar in qualifying them for election or appointment. The magistrates of the remaining thirty-two counties must be high school graduates or the equivalent thereof. Magistrates and Metropolitan Court judges are elected to serve four-year terms. Several magistrates serve as municipal judges as well.

Annual training is provided for all magistrates by the Administrative Office of the Courts, in compliance with statutory mandate. The magistrate benchbook and court clerk's manual provide judges and clerks with daily procedural guidance.

The Administrative Office of the Courts gathers and analyzes statistics to determine judgeship and clerk needs. Areas of concern within the magistrate court system are reviewed and improvements recommended on a continuing basis.

Created by the 1979 Legislature, the "metropolitan court" consolidated the Bernalillo County Magistrate Court, Small Claims Court, and the Albuquerque Municipal Court. Albuquerque's metropolitan court was so designated as it meets statutory requirements of being located within the boundaries of a class A county with a population of more than 200,000 persons.

The metropolitan court constitutes a state magistrate court. In addition to the jurisdiction provided by law for magistrate courts, it has jurisdiction coextensive with the county over all offenses and complaints under ordinances of the county and of any municipality located within Bernalillo County. Civil jurisdiction extends to debts and sums claimed not exceeding $5,000 exclusive of interest and costs.

SUPREME COURT LAW LIBRARY
1981-1982

During fiscal year 1981-82 the library circulated approximately 40,000 books, not counting books shelved by patrons. This is probably the most reflective figure regarding the library's activity. This past year has seen a dramatic increase in the use of the library not only because of the increase in number of Supreme Court clerks but also on the part of state government attorneys and local First Judicial District practitioners. The accession count of bound volumes in the library on June 30, 1982 was 105,659. Approximately 113 items per day were received and processed throughout the year. In addition to bound volumes, over 28,000 separate items were received, evaluated and processed. About one-tenth of that number will eventually become part of the library permanent collection. Two thousand five hundred and thirty-four bound volumes were acquired this past year. This is not only the largest number in over 15 years, it is a 16 percent increase over last year and was made possible by increased funding especially for updating and expanding the treatise collection.

BOOK PRICE INCREASE

This past year another significant increase in the price of law books was reflected in the cost of maintaining the law library. Many of the items that were once acquired free are no longer available without charge. Some charges are more subtle than straight forward price increases... i.e. two companies without any announcement suddenly began to charge for shipping even though they had never done so before.

EXCHANGE PROGRAMS

The law library now has 294 exchange agreements in force with law schools, state libraries and other court libraries in all states. Some 370 bound volumes, or more than one-eighth of the total number acquired last year came to us through this exchange program. Over 1600 issues of law reviews and bar journals also come from this source. The cooperation of the New Mexico State Bar has enabled the library to establish 82 exchange agreements, primarily for the exchange of the Bar Bulletin for law review. This provided the State considerable savings.

THE TREATISE COLLECTION

The treatise collection in particular has been improved by at least two or three fold over the previous year due to increased funding in this area. This continuing program is of course necessary if the quality of that collection is to keep pace with development in the field of law as well as the needs of the courts and state government agency legal staffs.

THE CIRCULATION SYSTEM

The charging system, now beginning its third year of operation continues to smooth out that end of the library's circulation operations. As of the end of June 1982 we had 800 plus registered borrowers, a twenty percent increase over a year ago. This improvement was long overdue and replaced a system that would never have been able to handle the increased circulation capacity the library is now experiencing.

SEATING SPACE

Plans for modifying the new wing of the third floor into additional public working area just began in the latter part of the fiscal year have proven to be fortuitous. Even though there was no accurate way of predicting the increase in library use, the last few months of the year saw several afternoons each week when there were not enough places for patrons to work. All in all, these expansions and improvements came just in time to meet increased needs.

NEW MEXICO JUDICIAL COUNCIL

The Judicial Council was created by statute in 1969 to study the operations of the judicial system and make recommendations for improvements to the Legislature and the Supreme Court. The 19- member council is composed of judges, legislators, laymen and agency directors, and meets monthly to initiate studies, receive reports, discuss ideas for judicial improvements, and decide which proposals should be recommended to the Supreme Court or Legislature. A report on the yearly activities may be found in the Judicial Council's annual report.

JUDICIAL STANDARDS COMMISSION
July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982

COMMISSION DUTIES

Under the terms of the New Mexico Constitution, the Commission is authorized to investigate complaints that a judge has been guilty of willful misconduct in office, has persistently failed to perform or is unable to perform the duties of a judge, is habitually under the influence of intoxicating substances, or is suffering from a physical or mental disability which is of a permanent nature and which renders him incapable of performing his judicial duties. Some examples of these conditions might be:

willful misconduct	ignoring the rights of citizens, violating the state laws, improperly using judicial authority and showing discourtesy or bias
persistent failure or inability	delaying the hearing or decision of cases, not complying with rules and regulations for submitting documents, and exhibiting a lack of knowledge of how to perform a judge's duties
habitual intemperence	alcoholism or addiction to drugs, or abuse of alcohol or drugs which affects the performance of the judge on the bench or which creates public disrespect for the judicial office disability	significant loss of hearing or sight, inability to concentrate on court proceedings, illness that restricts the judge from attending court, senility, mental illness, any of which are of permanent nature and interfere with the judge's fulfilling all the duties of his office.

COMPLAINTS RECEIVED

During the 70th fiscal year the Commission received forty-six complaints. In addition, twelve complaints were still pending from the previous fiscal year. At the end of the fiscal year the Commission had disposed of forty complaints, while eighteen remained pending. The statistical summary below details the sources of complaints, the number of complaints, the number of complaints against each type of judge, and the dispositions, for each of the past five fiscal years. Some totals do not correspond since a single complaint may name two or more judges.
